

WILLIAM DOTSON

President & CEO, Modern Door and Equipment Sales, Inc.

BIOGRAPHY

William Dotson is a seasoned executive with over 38 years of leadership experience in commercial construction, economic development, and strategic business growth. As the President and CEO of Modern Door and Equipment Sales, Inc., William has been instrumental in transforming a family-owned business into North America's leading space management company, generating $50–55 million annually. Under his guidance, the company has grown consistently for 25 consecutive years and expanded operations across six states.

William's influence extends beyond business. He was a founding Member of the IDNNA (Independent Dealer Network of North America) and is on the Board of Directors and on the "President's Council" for the major manufacturer in our construction field.

He currently serves as Senior Policy Advisor for the Institute for Legislative Analysis, a nonprofit dedicated to providing critical legislative research. From 2020 to 2023, he also served as a Judge on the Charles County Orphans' Court, overseeing estate and guardianship matters.

William's educational background includes prestigious institutions such as the Judicial College of Maryland, Cornell University, The Wharton School, Wharton School of Business, and Hillsdale College. He is well-versed in executive leadership, strategic planning, and public relations.

Passionate about giving back, William and his wife, Julie, have contributed over $1 million to charitable organizations and have been deeply involved in initiatives such as the Charles Regional Hospital Foundation, Lifestyles of Southern Maryland, and the United Way. He has also led successful grassroots campaigns in Southern Maryland, advocating for community rights and civic engagement.

A devoted husband, community leader, and visionary executive, William Dotson continues to champion innovation, service, and principled leadership in both the private and public sectors.
